Updated: Nov 1, 2024

Bank account details may change periodically. Please contact us for the latest information before making a transfer.

Editorial assistants provide bank transfer (wire transfer) information only when no other payment option is available. Please note that verifying bank transactions can take time, as reference details may be lost during processing.

If you choose to pay via bank transfer, ensure all information provided to the bank is correct to avoid issues. Additionally, you must email a scanned copy of the remittance receipt to our editorial assistant, including the remitter's name, journal title, article title, and author names. Without the these information, we cannot match your payment with our bank records.
